

Northwest Pipe Company Announces $37.2 million Sale of Remaining Energy Tubular Facility; Positions for Growth in Water Business

VANCOUVER, Wash., Dec. 28, 2017 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Northwest Pipe Company (Nasdaq:NWPX) today announced it has sold its remaining Energy Tubular Products assets in Atchison, Kansas, including real estate, to Almacenadora Afirme, S.A. de C.V., Organización Auxiliar del Crédito, Afirme Grupo Financiero, a Mexican corporation of variable capital, for a purchase price of $37.2 million in cash.

Over the past four years, in order to reposition the company around its core Water Transmission business, Northwest Pipe has completed the following strategic efforts:

1. Sale of OCTG Energy Tubular business in March 2014
2. Closure of Atchison line pipe Energy Tubular business in January 2016
3. Sale of Atchison facility in December 2017

“Northwest Pipe has been on a multi-year transformational journey to refocus our efforts on becoming a pure play water company,” said Scott Montross, President and CEO of the company. “The sale of this non-core asset provides capital resources that strengthen our ability to pursue growth opportunities in the water and wastewater infrastructure markets. With no debt and the additional cash from this transaction, Northwest Pipe is now well positioned to slowly and opportunistically grow its water business.”
